Player of the Year - GLENN BUSBY

Glenn Busby had an outstanding 2022, with major achievements on the world stage:

- He led the Australian Men's over 65 team to the world title, without dropping a singles or doubles match, and did not lose a set.
- He then won the World Championships 65 men's singles title, dropping only 11 games during the event
- He also won the World Championships 65 men's doubles title
- The following week, he also won the World Championships men's 60's singles title.
- In total, this was 25 matches in three weeks, without dropping a match.
- In Australia, Glenn won the Australian Championships (Swan Hill) and Oceania Championships in his age group.
- He also won a 45's ITF singles championships in the Netherlands.

The nomination received for Glenn noted that:

"He is always talking about how much he enjoyed the Australian 65's team winning the World Team event as the team was very much the underdog. As Team Captain, Glenn thrived on encouraging his team and still emphasizes just how much he had had the best time with this team. He has the most enormous pride in winning this World Team event."
